

Monday, April 7, 2008

thanks for tranquility trail day support

We had 15 sign in for the trail day at Tranquility yesterday. 28 bags of trash were collected from the park. A water crossing was armored and current armoring expanded. 13 directional signs were installed throughout the trail, including markers at every mile. We had four wheel barrels moving dirt and woodchips to install erosion control devices on the interior climb and descent on the south hill, 4.7-5.2 mile section.

We heard a couple riders out there complain that they didn't know about the work day. We forgot to send out an email blast. Next time, we will remember!

45 work hrs were put in! Thanks to everyone who helped!

I didn't take any pics. Tom, maybe you could edit a couple into this topic?

Dale explaining what work is needed. The trash picked up.

Posted by dale at 11:19 AM 4 comments
Labels: trail day, Tranquility